

Listen to keynote speaker Gray Poehnell for Career Month

Crafting a better story through Hope-Filled Engagement

Crafting a better story through Hope-Filled Engagement is an essential skill in today's chaotic world of life and work. We all have stories, and our stories are essential to our life/career journeys. On our journeys, we are always facing two stories. One is the outer story, the events and circumstances of our lives; the other is our inner story, how we respond to these events and the meaning we give to them. Because of their life circumstances, the inner story that far too many people follow is one of hopelessness, one that implies that there is no point in really trying. In this keynote we will explore how we can be intentional about the life-long process of crafting a story of hope and possibilities, a story that can sustain and guide us as we explore all our potential on our life/career journeys.

Nov 1, 12–1:30 pm

Online: Register here

Gray Poehnell is an experienced life/career consultant with over 32 years experience working with a wide diversity of clients and students. Gray is of Metis descent and is committed to supplementing mainstream career approaches by addressing the increasing need for a diversity of tools and concepts that are easily accessible to increasingly diverse populations. He has focused on holistic, inclusive approaches that cultivate hope, accessibility, journey, story, practical spirituality, creativity, and imagination.

Find a list of our FREE events on our website
Learn more at ufv.ca/jobs

